Howard Industries has six different facilities with over two-million square feet of manufacturing space. Over five hundred mechanical and electrical engineers with thousands of combined years of experience take our ideas and create innovative technology to help medical facilities maximize productivity and improve patient care. We also support first-responders in emergency situations by facilitating communication among diverse systems and organizations. From single components for individual consumers to large-scale solutions for commercial businesses, we supply superior technology.

Howard Medical is the nation's leading point-of-care provider of mobile solutions and technology designed for patient care. In addition to manufacturing our own line of POC carts, we've partnered with other healthcare industry leaders to bring a world of new product solutions to the point-of-care—reliable, secure technology that increases productivity and enhances patient care. Howard Medical—smart solutions for busy medical professionals.
